

CONTENTS.

LECTURE I.

NATURE AND IMPORTANCE OF PROPHECY.

	PAGE
INTRODUCTION : Design of the Lectures,	I
I. THE NATURE OF PROPHECY,	4
1. Difference from Human Foresight,	9
2. Difference from Heathen Oracles,	13
3. The Supernatural Element implied,	15
4. Method of Divine Communication,	16
Examples of Prophecies,	20
II. THE IMPORTANCE OF PROPHECY,	24
1. Importance of Unfulfilled Prophecy,	24
2. Importance of Fulfilled Prophecy,	29
SUPPLEMENT I. Recent Literature on the Messianic Prophecies,	31
SUPPLEMENT II. The Prophetical Office,	39
SUPPLEMENT III. The Heathen Oracles,	42
SUPPLEMENT IV. The First Promise (Gen. iii. 15),	44

LECTURE II.

ARGUMENT FROM THE MESSIANIC PROPHECIES.

INTRODUCTION : On the Title Messiah,	49
I. CLAIM OF JESUS TO BE THE MESSIAH,	54
Messianic Consciousness of Jesus,	56
The Assertions of the Apostles,	58
The Claim founded on the Prophecies,	61

	PAGE
II. ARGUMENT FROM THE MESSIANIC PROPHECIES,	62
1. Not required to prove the Old Testament of Divine Origin,	63
2. The Prophecies published before the Events predicted,	68
3. The Gospels contain a Record of the Events,	70
4. The Events predicted could not be foreseen,	75
5. The Fulfilment a Proof of the Messiahship,	77
SUPPLEMENT I. Jewish Admission of a Messiah,	78
SUPPLEMENT II. Messianic Consciousness of Jesus,	83
SUPPLEMENT III. Collins' 'Grounds and Reasons,'	88
SUPPLEMENT IV. Strauss' View of the Origin of the Evan- gical History,	90
SUPPLEMENT V. Source of the Supernatural Influence in Prophecy,	94

LECTURE III.

NATURE OF THE MESSIANIC PROPHECIES.

INTRODUCTION: Resumé of the former Lectures,	98
I. THE OBSCURITY OF THE MESSIANIC PROPHECIES,	100
Peculiarities of the Prophetic Language,	103
Reasons of Prophetic Obscurity,	104
Partial Obscurity does not invalidate a Prophecy,	108
II. THE REALITY OF THE MESSIANIC PROPHECIES,	110
1. The Prophecy of Shiloh (Gen. xlix. 10),	111
2. The Prophet like to Moses (Deut. xviii. 15),	113
3. The Mighty God (Isa. ix. 6),	114
4. The Servant of Jehovah (Isa. liii.),	115
5. The Seventy Weeks (Dan. ix. 24-26),	116
6. Bethlehem-Ephrath (Micah v. 2),	117
7. The Triumphant Messiah (Zech. ix. 9),	119
8. The Pierced Messiah (Zech. xii. 10),	120
9. The Angel of the Covenant (Mal. iii. 1),	122
Development of the Messianic Idea,	124

	PAGE
SUPPLEMENT I. Additional Remarks on the Primary Messianic Prophecies,	127
SUPPLEMENT II. Expectation of a Messiah,	145

LECTURE IV.

THE SECONDARY MESSIANIC PROPHECIES.

INTRODUCTION : Objection of Collins,	155
I. THE NATURE OF THE SECONDARY MESSIANIC PROPHECIES,	158
Theory of an alleged Double Sense,	159
Examples of Secondary Prophecies : Immanuel (Isa. vii. 14-16),	162
The Seventy-second Psalm,	165
The Messianic Psalms,	166
Nature of Typical Prophecies,	170
II. THE VALIDITY OF THE SECONDARY MESSIANIC PROPHECIES,	174
The View of Bishop Marsh,	174
Rules for the Interpretation of Secondary Prophecies,	179
Recapitulation,	182
SUPPLEMENT I. Immanuel,	183
SUPPLEMENT II. The Messianic Psalms,	201
SUPPLEMENT III. Quotations from the Old Testament,	208

LECTURE V.

PROOF OF THE MESSIAHSHIP OF JESUS.

INTRODUCTION : The Question to be discussed,	213
1. The Family from which the Messiah was to arise,	216
2. The Time of the Appearance of the Messiah,	219
3. The Place where the Messiah was to be born,	227
4. The Life and Character of the Messiah,	230
5. The Sufferings, Death, and Burial of the Messiah,	233

	PAGE
6. The Success of the Religion of the Messiah,	235
The Force of the Argument,	238
SUPPLEMENT I. Daniel's Seventy Weeks,	239
SUPPLEMENT II. Dr. Gregory on the Argument from Prophecy,	263

LECTURE VI.

EXAMINATION OF ISAIAH LIII.

INTRODUCTION : Contents of the Prophecy,	267
I. THE PROPHECY NEGATIVELY CONSIDERED,	268
On the Servant of the Lord,	270
1. Supposed to be the Jewish Nation,	273
2. Supposed to be the Prophetical Order,	278
3. Referred to Different Persons,	280
Supposed to be Jeremiah,	281
4. On the Doctrine of Two Messiahs,	282
II. THE PROPHECY POSITIVELY CONSIDERED,	284
Its Fulfilment in Jesus,	284
Objection to the Messianic Interpretation,	287
A Suffering and Victorious Messiah,	288
Jewish Views of a Suffering Messiah,	290
The Obscurity of Prophecy removed by its Fulfilment,	295
SUPPLEMENT I. Exegetical Remarks on Isa. liii.,	297
SUPPLEMENT II. The non-Messianic Interpretations of Isa. liii.,	304
SUPPLEMENT III. The Doctrine of a Twofold Messiah,	310

LECTURE VII.

INFERENCES FROM THE MESSIAHSHIP OF JESUS.

INTRODUCTION : Recapitulation,	314
I. THE OLD TESTAMENT CONTAINS A DIVINE REVELATION,	315

	PAGE
II. THE TRUTH OF CHRISTIANITY,	318
The Unbelief of the Jews,	323
The Experimental Evidence,	329
III. ESSENTIAL CONNECTION BETWEEN JUDAISM AND CHRISTIANITY,	330
Position of the Messiah in the Old Testament,	333
IV. THE DIGNITY OF THE MESSIAH,	334
His Divine Nature,	334
The Jewish Notion of the Dignity of the Messiah,	338
V. THE PURPOSE FOR WHICH THE MESSIAH CAME INTO THIS WORLD,	346
The Expiatory Nature of His Sufferings,	347
The Jewish Denial of Substitution,	348
CONCLUSION,	350
SUPPLEMENT I. The Jehovah-Angel,	351
SUPPLEMENT II. The Dogma of a Temporal Messiah,	361

PREFATORY NOTE.

THE seven Lectures contained in this volume were delivered in the course of the winter in Blythswood Church, Glasgow, being the Baird Lectures for 1879. The subject discussed in them is of supreme importance; it is a fundamental point both of Christian evidence and Christian doctrine; and should these Lectures lead to its more thorough investigation by some of those scholarly divines who are numerous in England and not unknown in Scotland, they will not have been delivered in vain. The author has to apologise for some repetitions which he found it impossible to avoid. To each Lecture he has appended Supplements on certain points which could not well be discussed in public discourses.

MANSE OF GALASHIELS,

April 1879.